The bike is a 1983 Honda VT750C Shadow. This was the first year of the Shadow line and featured an impressive list of features aimed at giving the rider the utmost in reliability to allow riding rather than wrenching.

Highlights include but not limited to:

45 degree V-twin with 3 valves and dual spark plugs per cylinder, hydraulic valve adjusters, electronic ignition and a split clutch to cut down on rear-wheel lock-up when gearing down rapidly (also makes it harder to bump-start).
